

CALL FOR MEMBERS OF THE PUBLIC TO JOIN ADR SCOTLAND DATA PANEL

Are you interested in how data can be used to improve lives, services and public policy? Or how Scotland can make the most of the data we already have and discover new things about society, such as the impact of Covid-19 on certain groups?

ADR Scotland is seeking people to join and expand its existing public panel and is looking to recruit 6-8 new members. We are keen to hear from anyone interested in shaping how data and research can be used for public benefit in Scotland and communicated effectively to all.

This virtual panel meets four times a year with payment for each session. We are keen to ensure our panel is as representative as possible, and would love to hear from people of all ages (over 18) and backgrounds, especially those who are passionate about, have lived experience of or work in areas related to our research themes.

You can find out more, download the role profile and apply here.

Please note, the deadline for applications is Friday 20 August 2021.
